Tapestry Award Description

History and Purpose
The UWOC Tapestry Award is granted to those that help create a thriving campus community where diversity in the widest sense is welcomed and supported. The selection committee particularly seeks efforts that affect the campus climate for women students, faculty, and staff of color.

While many view the ideal model of American society as being that of a "melting pot", an alternative theory is that of a tapestry. A tapestry allows all people to come together to create something stronger, greater and more vivid than each person is on their own but still gives opportunities for individuals to be acknowledged for the gifts each person brings. With that vision in mind the University Women of Color Council renamed the Barceló Award the UWOC Tapestry Award in Fall of 2007.

Nancy "Rusty" Barceló Ph.D is the first vice president and vice provost for equity and diversity, 2006-present. Dr. Barceló formerly served at the U as associate VP for multicultural and academic affairs, 1996-2001, and headed the Chicano studies department, 1999-2001. Her vision of the multicultural university focuses on the importance of building coalitions to foster an inclusive and diverse campus environment.

Initially, the Rusty Barceló Award was established in 2002 to acknowledge individual efforts to create a positive campus climate for women and particularly, women of color. In fall 2004, after consulting with Dr. Barceló regarding her focus on collaboration, cooperation, and action in advancing the goals of inclusiveness and diversity, the honor was refined and re-titled as the Barceló Collaborative Multicultural Projects Grant. In fall 2007 Dr. Barceló announced that she would move responsibility for the award to the University Women of Color Council where it was renamed the Tapestry Award.

“We should all know that diversity makes a rich tapestry. All the threads are equal in value no matter their color.”
